Excellent.

If I or wider number 10 can be useful, let me know.

Regards,
Ben

Yes I have been pushing them on this for the last 10 days or so. I think Steve Powis has now grasped it and they have the meeting planned for Monday. I do know that NHS has been doing a lot of modelling of bed use etc, but the problem is that they haven't defined the input variables well enough and we haven't validated them. I think this is on track following today.

Hi Patrick,

In the SAGE meeting today, I was a little concerned the NHS didn't seem to know what they needed for their models, and didn't seem to have started modelling.

Did you have the same feeling?

Regards,
Ben
