I spoke to Chris Whitty at length about your concerns about the comms tomorrow getting over complicated. He thinks there is a really simple way of describing what we want people to do in future based on: from Monday if you're ill stay home.

He is going to make sure that by Cobr we're in a good solid position.

However, he also thinks the Scots are going soft on mass gatherings - and the Nicola has decided she definitely wants to move on some totemic cancellations.
