Subject: NHS England want to amend testing social care policy

Hi NR NR

NHS England (Simon) want us to restrict the testing of patients in hospitals going to care homes, only to those patients who are going to care homes for the FIRST TIME, not those who are returning to their care home. They are concerned about their operational capacity to do that as they are trying to establish how many people are admitted from a care home.

I think in policy terms, we should be committing to testing everyone going to a care home from hospital.

Any thoughts on handling?

Best wishes

Ros
