Rob,

Just to follow up the call just now. I am very worried reading the email string and reflecting on this. Above all else I am really worried that National politics could trump public safety and need in Wales and we end up losing out badly in Wales. Tracey has been in touch with Alex at PD this morning who sounds like he is under immense pressure to redirect Roche test kits elsewhere. [REDACTED] NR is following up with Roche to try and get their commitment to Wales in writing. My worry is that we lose that and are then wholly dependent on the Amazon-Boots deal and whatever UK Gov decide to throw our way. And to be clear, I fully recognise that this is a matter for WG to lead on behalf of Wales, so my apologies if I am overstepping the line.

Quentin

Rob, as Strategic Director for PHW today I would be grateful if someone could send me the dial in details.

Quentin.
