19/05/2021, 15:31 - Jeane Freeman: Congratulations! If you want a word at any point just let me know. Go well! J

20/05/2021, 21:26 - Jeane Freeman: Hah! Annie Wells?? You just win a watch. Fantastic

20/05/2021, 21:28 - Humza: Looool you and FM are two peas in a pod she just messaged the same thing

Never underestimate your Opposition is my motto!

26/05/2021, 23:14 - Humza: Hoooooow did you possibly wade your way through the mountain of statistics that came your way every single day. I feel like im drowning in statistical publications and daily stats.

Assuming (hoping!) I just get good at figuring out which ones i need to pay close attention to!

27/05/2021, 00:42 - Jeane Freeman: In your last para you've cracked it. Work out what matters and pay attention to them - and those (at most) will be the ones the cabinet needs to know. Use NR - he totally gets stats and cut a deal with him that of the rest (the ones you won't focus on) which matter that he could keep an eye on. I'd run your list of ones you will pay close attention to past him because he'll know which stats the boss looks at closely. All of that will help you work out in time what needs to be counted and what doesn't. The other thing is PHS - do sometimes need reminded they're an NHS board like any other and not a bunch of free lancers. They produce a list of forthcoming publications - worth looking at to spot potential issues and worth querying some as to who commissioned the work! Hope the helps....

27/05/2021, 00:48 - Humza: All v helpful advice, i should rant to you more often
