PM, I always like to be polite in our conversations but I must confess to feeling a little hacked off.

Not only do I get completely fucked over by decisions on the 4th January that I took the shit and abuse for I then get my legs cut from under me by an appointment that you don't have the proper courtesy to discuss with me and get screwed over again. Must confess even less happy about that. I then get No10 leaking the story of the appointment and yet you guys don't even have the basic level of competence to line up the appointment as the guy was going to turn it down because it hadn't been sorted and then at that point I then have to be deployed to sort out No10's cluster fuck. But in answer to your question we are working well with Kevan and I am sure he will come up with some excellent evidence based policies that we are all very enthusiastic about. But the last time I was treated like such an utter piece of shit by No10 was in the 1st May 2019 and that didn't work out well.

As always G
